Maha Siva Ratri Special: Panchakshara Maha Mantra Japa Yajnam

Maha Siva Ratri is on Monday, February 20, 2012.

Hindu Temple of The Woodlands is conducting Akshara Laksha (5 Lakh) Panchakshara Maha Mantram for the peace and prosperity of the society. This means chanting “Om Namassivaya” for 5 lakh times. Devotees can chant this maha mantram at their convenient location, at their convenient time. In addition, people may come and chant this maha mantram at the temple during temple timings, as groups. Any of your friends and family, especially kids, even people living out of Houston can participate in this maha mantra japa yajnam and get God’s blessing. You may keep track of their count as well or they may directly e-mail their count to the HTW contact address below.

Devotees may use the table below to keep track of the number of times they chanted the maha mantram.

This maha mantra japa yajnam starts on January 1, 2012 and concludes on February 19, 2012. Final dedication is on the Siva Ratri day, February 20, 2012. Details about this dedication will be announced on the website. Details about the participation and the count will be updated regularly in the website.
